Frederic N. Green of 824 Main street has been awarded patent rights on an appliance calculated to do away with the rasping sound in playing records on talking machines. Mr. Green's invention is a simple one, consisting of two wooden disks and three-quarter inches across and held apart three-eighths of an inch by three small brackets, the whole weighing less than an ounce. The disks are arranged to give the effects of a violin, the center of each disk being recessed to simulate a sounding board. The wooden reproducer is attached to a socket which may be attached to the sound arm of any talking machine. Mr. Green has given demonstrations at several of the music houses in the state and the appliance has been ordered by a number of dealers. He is already a large number of orders on hand. He has been at work perfecting the appliance for a number of years.

Joseph Moriarty was in police court Monday morning for intoxication, to which charge he pleaded guilty. Moriarty was arrested by Officer Grant Bombard in the rear of the store of the Ames Motor company on Main street shortly before 10 o'clock Saturday. Moriarty morning's appearance of Moriarty in court marked his first in a short time. He said he had been drinking on the state road and his brother-in-law had promised to get him a job in Providence if he was given another chance. Judge Frank H. Fox imposed a fine of $10 and costs and suspended Moriarty to 30 days in jail, suspended judgment on the latter penalty, with a warning that if Moriarty appeared in court again the jail sentence would stand, together with whatever other penalty the court might care to impose. Moriarty's fine, amounting to $17.15, was paid by his mother.

The institution of Canton Windham, No. 2, the informed rank of the U. O. P. took place in Old Fellow hall Saturday evening. The ceremonies were in charge of Col. C. M. Chappell, state department commander, assisted by his staff officers and cheerleaders were present from Norwich, Bridgeport, New Haven, Waterbury, Hartford, New London and Mystic. After the institution of the canton the patriarchal militant degree was conferred on the members present, followed by the installation of officers: Captain and commander, Fred H. Williams; lieutenant, Arthur W. Swanson; ensign, Wilber G. Stevens; clerk, Willard N. Bowen; accountant, Walter Thompson.

The appointive officers will be named by Captain Williams at the August meeting, when plans will be made for the purchase of uniforms. Canton Windham is one of the largest institutions in this section of the state and the members plan social activities the coming fall and winter, some in this city and others in Danvers, where a number of the members reside. A banquet was held and an informal social time took place after the business of the evening.

A pastel has been placed on exhibition at the Windham National bank by H. C. Lathrop, showing the old Deacon Swift store and the Congregational church as they existed on the east side of Windham Green up to the summer of 1888, when both were destroyed by fire. The old store was for a hundred years or more a notable landmark in eastern Connecticut. The picture is the work of John W. Robinson of Farmington, who was born in Windham in the Old Jail Tavern a short distance east of the green. Moving to Boston in his youth, he studied architecture there and was also a student in the Massachusetts and Cowles Art schools with Emil Carlson and Thomas J. Gargis among his teachers. He also studied in the Art Students League in New York under Dewing and Brush and water colors under I. O. Longfellow of Boston. He is the inventor of the Brulegrauve etching, a process and other data being on exhibition in the National museum, Washington, and proofs in the collections of the Congressional library, Public library and Museum of Fine Arts, Boston, Public library, Metropolitan art museum and Gilder club, New York, Art Institute, Chicago, and Bibliotheque Nationale, Paris. Mr. Robinson recently closed an exhibition of water colors, pastels and Brulegrauve etchings at the Vayana galleries in Hartford. The pastel on exhibition at the bank is from a pen drawing made in 1888, one year before the destruction of the buildings, and is to be presented Windham library by the artist.

During the series of electrical disturbances that visited this section over the week end the damage was unusually severe, although that from lightning in Willimantic proper was comparatively nil. It is estimated that at least 30 houses were struck within a radius of 10 miles of Willimantic. The local exchange of the Southern New England Telephone company suffered greatly and for that reason it was impossible to ascertain the damage done in the surrounding towns until after the service was improved. More than 1,500 of the 2,650 stations on the Willimantic exchange were reported out of order at one time—more trouble than any other place in the state experienced. The stations in the rural districts were the worst affected and it was one or two days before they will all be in working order again. The toll line service was restored soon after the storm had spent its fury.

The streets of the city were damaged by the rushing water. The main body of the street department had just finished carrying away rubbish left by a previous storm on Main and Valley streets, and now have the job to do over again.

Lightning struck in two places on the Arthur Noble place at Ripley Hill, South Coventry, one bolt striking a tree in the yard while another entered the back door of the house, passing through six rooms and damaging all the furniture. Two doors were torn from their hinges and considerable plastering was ripped off. Mrs. Noble was mixing dough at the time and the batch was hurled to the ceiling.

The summer house of Richard O. Cheney of South Manchester at Ripley Hill was struck and considerable damage done. The cottage of Theodore Marotte of this city at Lake Wampanoag was struck, the lightning hitting a can of gasoline and setting fire to the place. Mrs. Marotte, who was in the cottage, shouted for help and John Boucher, who owns a cottage near by, responded and extinguished the flames.

In Chapin's house of Charles B. Russ at Tower Hill was struck and damaged somewhat. An unoccupied house in the town was badly damaged and a valuable sheep dog owned by Mrs. Arthur S. Vail was killed. The lightning running along a wire that was attached to the animal, three horses belonging to John Reed of the Natchaug district were killed and two valuable ones belonging to William Farrell of Hanks Hill. The home of Otto Hattin of Hope was struck and damaged somewhat.

At Village Hill a cow owned by Joseph Shaffer was killed and two bolts of lightning entered the grocery store of Ernest Dunn at Danbury Center, burning out the telephone connections. Mr. and Mrs. Dunham suffered from a slight shock but soon recovered. The house of Francis

WESTERLY

Frank Chimento, new in the criminal game, was before Clerk M. Walter Flynn, acting as judge in the Third district court, Monday, charged with robbing. He was arrested at one o'clock Sunday morning in company with Tony Desimoni, for disturbing the peace when in the vicinity of Main and School streets. When the complaint was read to him and he was asked if he was guilty or not guilty, he smiled and so did his wife and other friends who were in court. A girl interpreter explained the complaint and the accused said he made no noise, therefore pleaded not guilty. He said he took a walk with Tony, that Tony found a pint of whiskey in a post and that they both drank from the bottle. He said Tony had a revolver and that he became scared and walked about thirty feet behind Tony, when he was arrested. When he heard the shot, he said he "was scared like hell." He wanted to go home; he did not want to stay in a cell another second.

Barbour at Watch Hill over the telephone said that neither her touring car, registered in this state as 30,715, nor the runabout of her grand daughter, Miss Rhodes, registered 30,716, had been in the vicinity of Central Falls and that neither her granddaughter nor herself had been robbed of number plates.

DAVIS THEATRE.

Today the Davis will offer a special programme of feature pictures headed by one of the biggest dramatic sensations ever shown in this city. Have you ever looked out of the window on a rainy night and noticed the passing of the raindrops? Through the mist you see the "caddy" who hawks all night with his "rag," the ragged tramp with a homeless home and the girl who sinks in the shadows. And wondering what are their hopes, dreams, loves and aching, the haze lifts and you are united before you the drama of these passers-by—a play of sympathy and understanding. But what of the girl you think? That is what every one else will be thinking at the same time you are when you see Passers-by, the silver sheet. Passers-by will make screen history. It is human. It is artistic. It is dramatic. The characters are "types"—people you know. One lives the part in life. To support Herbert Rawlinson, Mr. Blackton has chosen an all star cast that is exceptional, including Tom Lewis, Dick Joseph, Sam J. Ferguson, Lella Valentine and Blackton, Jr. I wish to personally recommend to you Passers-by. It is a full knowledge that you will receive these same sentiments to your friends after you see this famous play.

The other feature is The Mix in The Heart of Texas. Ryan, a six-part western drama full of thrills and swift action and one of the best and newest Tom Mix pictures.

Topics of the Day will be shown, also Paramount Screen Magazine.

Special bargain prices: Matinee 15 and 20 cents; nights 20 and 25 cents. Reserved seats 15 cents, including war tax.

The polls were open in the afternoon and evening. The voters and the electors who could vote without the slightest personal inconvenience were the only ones voting. A single ballot deposited by the warden or any other man would have served the purpose. It was a clean sweep for the democratic party in the borough.

Thin, Nervous People Need Bitro-Phosphate

Weak, thin people—men or women—are nearly always nervous wreck; this conclusively proving that weakness, restlessness, irritability and nervousness are most invariably due to nerve starvation. Feed your nerves and all these symptoms due to nerve starvation will disappear. Prominent specialists state that one of the best things for the nerves is Bitro-Phosphate, a five-grain tablet of which should be taken with each meal. Being a genuine nerve builder and not a stimulant or habit-forming drug, Bitro-Phosphate safely and surely builds up the weakest and most delicate sufferer, and the results following its use are often simply astonishing.

By strengthening the nerves, weak, tired people regain energy and vigor; thinness and angularity give way to plumpness and curves; sleep returns to the sleepless; confidence and cheerfulness replace debility and gloom; dull eyes become bright and pale, sunken cheeks regain the pink glow of health. It is sold by Lee & Osgood and all good druggists.

CAUTION—Bitro-Phosphate, the use of which is inexpensive, also wonderfully promotes the assimilation of food so much so that many people report marked gains of weight in a few weeks. These local gains can be put on a put on flesh should use extra care in avoiding fat-producing foods.
